Kenan-Flagler Academic Program

What is the daily curriculum like?

Each day begins with a look at the day's agenda. From Monday to Thursday, you will tackle different business topics with overview discussions, a review of real-world applications and related case studies, team-building exercises, time to work on team projects, coaching sessions with the professors and visits from local entrepreneurs and business leaders. Monday-Thursday topics typically cover four key pillars of business: Strategy, Operations, Marketing, and Finance. On Friday, student teams present their projects and receive valuable feedback on your work from your peers, the professors, and your client. Prizes will be awarded for the best ideas and delivery. Throughout the week, you'll also explore topics related to collaboration and teamwork and participate in a variety of exercises that will help you put those skills to work!

What is the academic schedule like?

Generally, students meet in the mornings with their professors for interactive lecture sessions with plenty of breaks and team activities throughout the session. After lunch, the afternoon is a mix of active team work, with guidance from Teaching Assistants and Peer Leaders, daily team meetings with your professor, and guest speakers (many of whom are UNC alumni) who will share their career journey and advice for the future with students.

Does Kenan-Flagler provide any acknowledgments or a statement of the student's participation?

Students receive a "recognition of achievement" on the last day.

LED BY OUTSET

Life on Campus: A Preview of College with Outset

For many students, this week is their first real taste of college life, and that's by design. When the academic day at Kenan-Flagler wraps up, students head back to their residence hall on UNC's campus, share meals in the dining hall, and spend their evenings with a cohort of motivated high school students who are just as excited about business as they are.

From navigating campus to settling into dorm life and managing their own schedule, students get a feel for what freshman year is really like, with Outset's residential staff supporting them every step of the way. Evening activities like pool nights, game nights, and bowling give students time to unwind and get to know their fellow students outside the classroom.

The connections students make with peers who share their curiosity and ambition are a big part of the experience. Students leave with new business skills, a clearer picture of what college could look like for them, and new friends who share their interests.

Housing

Where will students live?

Students will live in UNC dorms located within the UNC campus. The exact dorm location will be decided in spring 2027 in consultation with UNC Housing and Conference Services.

How are roommates assigned?

Students learn about their roommate at check-in. Roommate requests on the housing form are honored if both students request each other and a double is available. Otherwise, students are paired with a roommate of the same gender, occasionally in a triple.

Can I request a single room?

Single rooms cost an additional $400, are first-come, first-served, and are not guaranteed. Request one on the housing form; if approved, you will receive a payment link, and payment confirms the room. If a single room is medically necessary, unfortunately the $400 extra fee still applies.

MORNING

What is a typical morning schedule?

Wake up is typically around 7:30am, and then breakfast is 8:00am before heading to Kenan Flagler for academics around 8:30-8:45am.

EVENING

What is a typical evening schedule? What do students do?

Typically, students will return to the dorm after the academic day ends and enjoy free time with supervised activities until dinner around 6pm. After dinner, Outset will organize evening activities which may include an outdoor pool night, game nights, movie nights, bowling, etc. We try to have a mix of activity options that appeal to all. Typically students are back to the dorm by 10pm for quiet hour and showers, and lights out is 10:45pm or 11:00pm.

LIFE ON CAMPUS

Dining & Dorm Life

Where do students eat?

Breakfasts are at the UNC Chase Dining Hall, served buffet-style with a range of options. Lunch and snacks will be served at Kenan-Flagler during the academic program day. Dinners will either be at Chase Dining Hall or catered from local restaurants.

What are the expectations for living in the dorm?

Respect roommates' space, belongings, and sleep; keep rooms and shared spaces clean; honor quiet hours; and keep hallways and exits clear. Students may not visit other hallways or rooms besides their own. Roommate or living issues should be raised early with a counselor or the Camp Director.

YOUR SAFETY

Safety & Supervision

How secure are the residence halls?

Only students and staff with a key can enter a residence hall. Each student gets a room key and a building fob, and room doors auto-lock when closed. Common areas and building entrances are monitored by video. Floors are separated by gender, with at least one Outset adult staff member living on each floor.

Who supervises students?

9:00 A.M.–4:00 P.M.

Daytime at Kenan-Flagler

Students are supervised by Kenan-Flagler program staff, faculty, Teaching Assistants, and Peer Leaders during academic programming. The program follows UNC's Protection of Minors requirements, including required supervision ratios and training for staff working with minors.

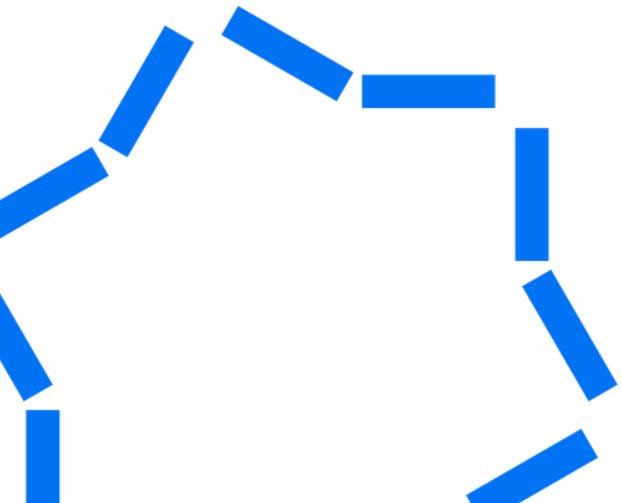

4:00 P.M.–9:00 A.M.

Evenings/Overnight with Outset

An Outset Camp Director and Assistant Director lead a team of Outset residential counselors, typically current UNC college students. Counselors and Assistant Director live in the residence halls and the Camp Director lives nearby. All staff are available 24/7. The staff-to-student ratio is about 1:8. All residential staff pass full background checks and are trained by Outset.

How are students supervised by Outset?

Students are placed in counselor groups and are supervised at all times by Outset staff. Students are not allowed to go anywhere on campus without an Outset staff member present according to UNC policy. Students learn campus boundaries at orientation, and must wear their lanyard at all times.

Health Care & Dietary Needs

How does Outset look after student health?

Staff check on students' physical and emotional well-being throughout the week. A student who feels unwell is evaluated by Outset leadership. In a medical emergency, staff call 911, accompany the student to the hospital, and stay until a parent arrives. Please list all medical information on the health form, including injuries, allergies, and mental health needs.

Can dietary restrictions and allergies be accommodated?

The university can accommodate many special dietary needs on request, though options may be limited for some restrictions. List all allergies and dietary needs on the health form. It is important to note that we cannot guarantee the complete absence of any particular allergen on or off property.

How are medications handled?

All medications, vitamins, and supplements must be declared in advance and turned in to Outset staff on Sunday at check-in in original packaging with a current prescription label and dosage. Staff store them securely and dispense them at the correct times. Medication not in original packaging cannot be dispensed.

Can students carry emergency medication?

Yes. Epi-pens, rescue inhalers, and insulin stay with the student with parent permission, provided the student can self-administer. Staff are told who carries emergency medication and where it is kept. All emergency medications must be registered and disclosed with the program.

Are over-the-counter medications available?

Evenings/Overnight with Outset: Outset leadership keep general OTC medications. Parents must approve any OTC meds their student may take on the health form or via writing by email. All OTC medications are given based on instructions on the label.

When will Outset contact a parent regarding a health concern?

When a student needs medical evaluation or treatment, a medication or care decision requires consent, illness limits participation, an injury goes beyond basic first aid, symptoms persist or worsen, there is an emergency, a contagious illness may require isolation, a mental health concern arises, the student misses more than about half a day, or the student asks us to call home.

GETTING HERE

Travel, Arrival & Departure

Does Outset offer airport transportation?

Yes, the cost is $50 each way - please request to your Outset point of contact.

| | |
|---|---|
| Airport | Outset can only pickup or dropoff at RDU airport |
| Arrival | Flights must land at RDU airport by 4:00 pm ET on arrival day. Group pickups begin at 1:00 pm; earlier arrivals wait at the airport. You will receive the pickup staff member's name and phone number 2–3 days before the program.Delays: if a flight lands after 4:00 pm or is rebooked, take an Uber, Lyft, or taxi to campus and text the provided staff number with your arrival time. |
| Departure | Flights must depart RDU airport after 4:30 pm ET on departure day (Kenan Flagler programming ends at 2pm ET). Outset aims to arrive 2 hours before your flight.Note: Outset cannot provide housing if a Friday flight is cancelled. |
| Unaccompanied minors | Outset generally cannot accommodate airline UM services. Check with your airline and contact the Camp Director before booking. |

Check-in & Check-out

When and where is check-in?

Check-In will start at 3:00 PM and end at 4:30 PM at the assigned residence hall at UNC (an exact address will be provided).

What happens at check-in?

Staff greet you at an outdoor table, where students receive nametags, keys, and welcome materials, and turn in medications at the healthcare table. Parents may walk through check-in, but adults are not allowed inside the residence halls for safety reasons.

Can we arrive early?

No early check-in is available. For students flying in, Outset's supervisory responsibility begins when Outset Staff meets you at the designated airport meeting point. Outset has no responsibility for students before the Airport Pickup, including during air travel and while students are in the airport before meeting Outset Staff. If your departure flight on Friday is cancelled, Outset cannot procure or provide housing for you on Friday evening.

For students being dropped off we ask that you arrive no sooner than the designated check-in time.

When is check-out and how does pickup work?

Friday, 2:00 pm. Parents or guardians must show a photo ID and be listed as an authorized pickup person. For a student to sign themselves out, email the Camp Director in advance to authorize self-departure in writing.

Can a student leave early?

Only when signed out with staff and accompanied by an authorized adult. For a family or medical emergency, contact the Camp Director to arrange departure.

Rules & Policies

Is there a code of conduct?

Yes. Students and parents acknowledge the Code of Conduct before arrival. Serious violations can lead to immediate dismissal without refund, with a parent responsible for early pickup.

What can lead to immediate dismissal from the program?

- Bullying, harassment, hazing, or derogatory language, or failing to report it
- Physically or sexually aggressive touching
- Photographing, recording, or posting other participants without permission
- Possessing or being under the influence of alcohol, tobacco, vapes, drugs, or weapons
- Leaving the program area without permission or staff supervision
- Violating a UNC code, policy, or regulation

How do you handle behavior issues?

Responses are fair and proportionate: informal redirection, then a reflective conversation or warning, a behavior plan, parent notification, and dismissal if needed. Some incidents must also be reported to UNC's Protection of Minors Office, which can remove a student from the program.

What are the rules about relationships and physical contact?

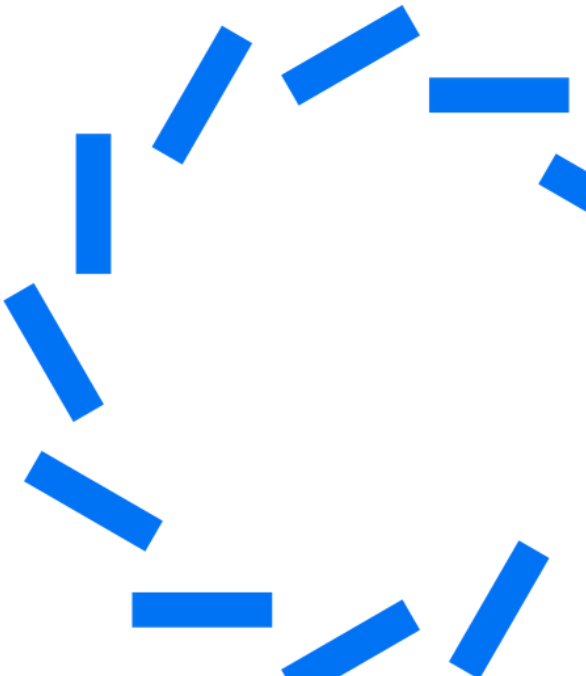

Brief hugs, high-fives, and handshakes are fine. Kissing, holding hands, being alone with another student in their room (other than a roommate), or being on another student's bed are not. Students may not text, call, or connect with staff on social media, and may not join group chats not authorized and monitored by staff.

What is the cell phone policy?

Students may bring cell phones with them to the program. Cell phones may be used within respectful confines of the program. It is expected that phones are put away whenever instructions are being given, a staff member is speaking or students are walking around in crowded areas.

Do students need to bring a laptop or tablet?

Yes, students should bring a laptop or tablet with a keyboard for use during the academic program. The device should have access to Microsoft Office, including Word, PowerPoint, and Excel. Kenan-Flagler and Outset are not responsible for lost, stolen, or damaged devices. We recommend using a protective case and labeling the device with the student's name.
